

New Chipotle Food Safety Procedures Largely in Place; Company Will Share Learnings from 2015 Outbreaks at All-Team Meeting

One-Time Meeting Will Close Chipotle Restaurants from 11:00 AM to 3:00 PM on February 8

DENVER--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 19, 2016-- Chipotle Mexican Grill (NYSE:CMG) will host a national employee meeting on February 8, to thank employees for their extraordinary work implementing Chipotle's comprehensive new food safety programs in their restaurants, as well as outlining for all employees the steps that have been taken outside the restaurants to make Chipotle ingredients safer than ever. The company will also share information as to what may have caused some customers to become ill in 2015.

"Over the last few months, we have been implementing an enhanced food safety plan that will establish Chipotle as an industry leader in food safety," said Steve Eells, founder, chairman and co-CEO of Chipotle. "Most of the new protocols are already in place, thanks to the hard work and dedication our excellent restaurant teams. Additionally, we have implemented unprecedented food safety standards with our suppliers, which make the food coming into our restaurants safer than ever before."

Chipotle's enhanced food safety program is the product of a comprehensive reassessment of its food safety practices conducted with industry leading experts that included a farm-to-fork assessment of each ingredient Chipotle uses with an eye toward establishing the highest standards for safety. The program's many components include:

- High-resolution DNA-based testing of many ingredients designed to ensure the quality and safety of ingredients before they are shipped to restaurants -- a testing program that far exceeds requirements of state and federal regulatory agencies, as well as industry standards.
- Changes to food prep and food handling practices, including washing and cutting of some produce items (such as tomatoes and romaine lettuce) and shredding cheese in central kitchens, blanching of some produce items (including avocados, onions and limes) in its restaurants, and new protocols for marinating chicken and steak.
- Enhanced internal training to ensure that all employees thoroughly understand the company's high standards for food safety and food handling.
- Paid sick leave helping to ensure that ill employees have no incentive to work while ill.

The meeting will be broadcast live from Denver to hundreds of locations across the country. In order to allow all employees to attend, the company will be closing its restaurants for lunch that day. The restaurants will reopen nationally at 3:00 PM.

"Chipotle is an established leader in our use of high quality ingredients - ingredients like Responsibly Raised™ meats, local and organically grown produce and pasture-raised dairy - and preparing our food using classic cooking techniques," said Eells. "Now, we are working to establish the company as the leader in food safety as well. Our employees will play a critical role in helping us achieve this goal and we want them to know how much we appreciate their dedication to this critical mission."

ABOUT CHIPOTLE

Steve Eells, founder, chairman and co-CEO, started Chipotle with the idea that food served fast did not have to be a typical fast food experience. Today, Chipotle continues to offer a focused menu of burritos, tacos, burrito bowls (a burrito without the tortilla) and salads made from fresh, high-quality raw ingredients, prepared using classic cooking methods and served in a distinctive atmosphere. Through our vision of Food With Integrity, Chipotle is seeking better food from using ingredients that are not only fresh, but that—where possible—are sustainably grown and raised responsibly with respect for the animals, the land, and the farmers who produce the food. In order to achieve this vision, we focus on building a special people culture that is centered on creating teams of top performers empowered to achieve high standards. This people culture not only leads to a better dining experience for our customers, it also allows us to develop future leaders from within.
