FREE BURRITOS: CHIPOTLE HONORS NURSES WITH ONE-DAY BOGO ON JUNE 4

Real food for those making a real difference in "Cultivating a Better World"

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif., May 29, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Chipotle Mexican Grill (NYSE: CMG) announced today it's offering a special, one day, buy-one-get-one free (BOGO) on Tuesday, June 4, 2019 to honor nurses across the country. Real food for those who are making a real difference in healthcare every day.

All nurses with a valid nursing license or ID can receive a free burrito, burrito bowl, salad or order of tacos with the purchase of an entrée of equal or greater value. And because Chipotle knows that many nurses' schedules go beyond traditional work hours, the promotion is valid at all Chipotle locations in the U.S. and Canada from open to close that day.

"We know that nurses are some of the most hardworking individuals and Chipotle wants to do its part to recognize these dedicated professionals who are helping to cultivate a better world," said Laurie Schalow, Chief Corporate Reputation Officer at Chipotle. "We're inviting all nurses to come into Chipotle to show us their IDs to redeem our token of appreciation."

The BOGO is valid for all types of nurses, including RN, NP, CRNA, CNS, CNM, LVN, CNA and local equivalents or analogues who present valid identification, such as their nursing license or hospital or medical office nursing ID. It is available for in-restaurant orders only and is not valid for online, mobile or catering. There is a limit of one free entrée item per eligible customer with the purchase of an entrée item of equal or greater value. The BOGO is available in conjunction with a Chipotle Rewards redemption, but cannot otherwise be combined with other offers or promotions. The offer is also void where prohibited and additional restrictions may apply.
